Press Release: DAY WORKER CENTER OF MOUNTAIN VIEW MAKES CLEAN SWEEP OF COMMUNITY SERVICE

The streets of Mountain View and Los Altos are cleaner today, thanks to 35 workers from the Day Worker Center of Mountain View, accompanied by Day Workers from the Center clean streets as a community service

Executive Director Maria Marroquin. The teams picked up trash on Castro Street from El Camino Real to Central Expressway, on both sides of El Camino Real from Jordan to San Antonio, and on Escuela Ave up to Crisanto.

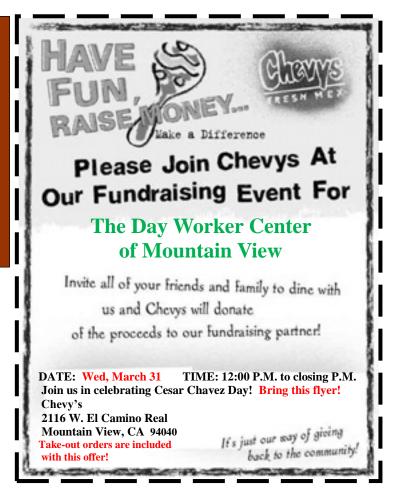

The workers contributed their time and labor as part of the Center's ongoing community service program, and to mark the beginning of a new National Service Campaign by day workers, in collaboration with the National Day Labor Organizing Network. The Center will carry out a community service activity every month as part of the National Service Campaign, in addition to the DWCMV's regular community activities, such as hosting and donating to the blood drives for the Stanford Blood Bank.

Blankets for Babies!

In a joint effort with the Trinity United Methodist Church, the women workers at the Day Worker Center are making blankets for the Lucile Packard Children's Hospital at Stanford. The hospital estimates 1500 new blankets are needed this year for the Neo-Natal ward. So far 30 blankets have been completed by the workers here at the center. We accept soft yarn donations with a grateful heart. If you'd like to donate yarn, please call!

Victoria Verde ~ "Green Victory"

Is a project in which local residents donate yard space for an organic garden that is installed and cared for by the day workers. The workers are trained in organic gardening skills, and the property owners get to enjoy organic produce!

We currently need 5 more spaces, the space need not be large. For details call Maria at 650.903.4102.

The Stanford Blood Center mobile blood drive at the Day Worker Center March 1st was a success with the day workers and other donating 14 units of blood.

It's That time of Year Again ~ Time for Spring Cleaning!

From gutters to garages, to cleaning up the yards after all of these storms, the workers from the Day Worker Center are ready to help. The workers are also able to prepare and plant your vegetable/flower gardens for the spring/summer season, and strip the extra fruit from your fruit trees.

if you had help to get these important chores completed, how Just think: much of the day could you spend doing something you'd actually really like to do?
